

Apprentice Meat-cutters

Whenever possible, we actively encourage interested employees to increase their skill levels and pursue the apprenticeship to become a meat-cutter in our Service Centres.

In some jurisdictions, this training is recognized by a provincial apprenticeship board, while in other areas, the training is specifically recognized by Vantage Foods for our own employee development initiatives.

Over a period of several years, apprentice meat-cutters become involved in all facets of cutting and preparing products for our customers. At the end of the apprenticeship period, successful candidates are recognized as fully qualified meat-cutters within our Service Centres and are compensated accordingly.

Requirements

Experience as a meat-cutter is not essential for the Vantage apprenticeship program, but familiarity with meat processing, Vantage products and processes is helpful.
